STUDENT SAFETY ABROAD

Student Safety Abroad

- Students travelling for the purpose of study, research, work, volunteer and service learning as part of your academic program may be exposed you to certain health and safety risks

- UBC's Student Safety Abroad Program includes a policy that sets out a process for approving student international travel for university activities. The program offers resources and tools that help students stay informed of and manage the risks associated with travelling abroad, while helping the University respond to emergency situations abroad

- Visit Student Safety Abroad for more information or contact safety.abroad@ubc.ca
